

InfoBurst production support team account (specific for azubw18005)

Requirements

In case the server is shut down due to some patching or other reasons, and then automatically started again, then there are two options, either the services start running again automatically or we must do that manually. In case the services don't start running automatically, the production support team will have to start them manually and check whether they are running fine or not.

In order to check the services they have to go to InfoBurst UI and login there with their account.

Their credentials are-

Username: production_support_team

Password: ps_team
